Artist Statement

Patrice Rose is a Caribbean-British Contemporary Visual Artist based in London who primarily works in a monochromatic colour palette. The stylised portraits and figurative works she creates layer charcoal, graphite and pencil on paper. Patrice Rose includes strokes of colour through pastel, gold foil or silkscreen printing her works on fibre. Storytelling is important to the artist's practice. Her work often explores societal attitudes towards femininity, equality, mental health and the intersectionality for black identities within these stories.
